This session shows off much of your home (mostly the living room, master bedroom, and/or nursery). It's best for photos to do some decluttering before this session. I know all too well how messy it can get with little ones around!

About the Newborn Session

When?

I try to pencil sessions in approximately 2 weeks after your due date to be safe and then if baby is way early or late we can always reschedule from there.

The best time to do a newborn session is between 5-14 days after birth. During this time they tend to sleep deeper making them easier to maneuver into those adorable positions. Once they are older than two weeks they begin to become easily disturbed and are much more difficult to maneuver.

What?

Session - The session length is based on how your baby sleeps through it, or if they are awake, how calm they are throughout. A session length may vary. It could take 1.5-3 hours. Don't worry, I will keep going until we get what we need in order to complete your package. Sessions are completely baby lead, meaning we are doing whatever it takes to make baby calm and comfortable. Not all babies will be comfortable in all positions, such as on their bellies, so we will only do the positions that your baby allows and will settle into.

Props - I will send you a questionnaire once your baby has arrived for you to fill out prior to our session. This will help me get a good idea of what kind of props I'll need to have out and ready for your session. Feel free to bring and include some of your own props as well.

Where?

I have a studio set up in my home for Newborn and Baby sessions. Here, you will have full access to all props. Siblings are welcome during the family and sibling portion of the session, but it is required that the child leave with childcare for the remainder of the session, while mom and I stay and do baby only images.

Alternately, I can come to your home with props in tow, for an additional fee of $75.00. This is a great option for those who are between the Baby Lifestyle Package and the Newborn Session that includes props. It's also great for those who want to have their pets included in their session. Pets are not allowed in my home studio.

If you are located outside of Saskatoon, and would like for me to come to you, additional travel fees may apply.

Have more questions about any of the sessions? Please contact me.

Sessions are done in my in-home studio. We will consult on theme or colour scheme prior to our session. Please try to confirm your booking approximately 1 month ahead of Baby's Birthday session, to allow time for planning & sourcing your set up. You may opt to do a different type of mess instead of a cake such as Spaghetti chow down or Milk Bath. Just let me know!
